Blobby World Book Factory: Catalog Strategy and Weekly Playbook

Owner: Vijay (Bizatree LLC, pen name Blobby World Official). Written 2026-11-01. Read PROJECT.md first for the Pip's Christmas Countdown build details.

1. The problem

Pip's Christmas Countdown is seasonal: it sells hard from mid-November to about Dec 18, then falls to near zero until next October. One seasonal title cannot carry income. The fix is a catalog: many titles in one recognizable universe, a mix of evergreen books (sell all year) and seasonal books (each one spikes every year), all pointing readers to each other.

2. What the research says (Nov 2026)

- Evergreen early-learning coloring for ages 2-6 (alphabet, numbers, first words, vehicles, farm animals) sells year round. Parents rebuy and are not price sensitive for quality.
- Kids 4-8 is the volume heart of the market but crowded. Winning angle: a fun twist (dinosaurs doing everyday things, monster trucks at the beach).
- Bold and easy, large-print books for seniors and beginners have low competition and sell at adult prices ($10.99-$14.99, about $4-5 royalty).
- Seasonal kids books (Christmas, Easter, Halloween, Mother's Day, summer, back-to-school) work if published 6-8 weeks early and relisted yearly. A seasonal catalog compounds.
- A recurring character plus KDP Series linking turns one-off buyers into series buyers.
- Single-sided pages with blank backs avoid the top one-star complaint (marker bleed).
- Kids pricing sweet spot: $9.99 (crosses the better royalty band). Adult: $10.99-$14.99.
- Sources: inkfluenceai.com/blog/coloring-book-niches-2026, kdpbuilder.com/blog/best-coloring-book-niches. Re-verify with live Amazon data every Friday; these blogs are directional only.

3. The catalog model

Three lanes, all under the Pip and Friends universe for kids (Blobby World Official):

1. Evergreen core (publish first, sells every month): Pip's ABC, Pip's Numbers, Pip's First Words, Pip's Farm Friends, Pip's Vehicles, Pip's Dino Day.
2. Seasonal ladder (each earns every year): Valentine's, Easter, Mother's Day, Summer, Back-to-School, Halloween, Thanksgiving, Christmas.
3. Bundles and upgrades: once 3+ books exist, publish "Pip's Big Book of ..." compilations at $14.99-$16.99 (higher royalty, same art).

Later, separate lane under a different pen name (never Blobby World): bold-and-easy large-print adult/senior books at $12.99. Test only after 5+ kids titles are live.

Seasonal deadlines (live on Amazon by this date)

- Valentine's Day (Feb 14, 2027): live by Jan 3
- Easter (Mar 28, 2027): live by Jan 31
- Mother's Day (May 9, 2027): live by Mar 20
- Summer fun: live by May 25
- Back-to-School (mid-Aug): live by Jun 30
- Halloween: live by Aug 31

- Thanksgiving (Nov 25, 2027): live by Oct 1
- Christmas 2027: live by Oct 1 (this year's book went live too late to catch October-November search ramp; next year push from Oct 1)

First 10 books (ranked)

1. Pip's ABC Coloring Book (evergreen)
2. Pip's Valentine's Day (seasonal, deadline Jan 3)
3. Pip's Numbers 1-20 (evergreen)
4. Pip's Easter Egg Hunt (seasonal, deadline Jan 31)
5. Pip's Farm Friends First Words (evergreen)
6. Pip's Big Trucks and Trains (evergreen, boys angle)
7. Pip's Mother's Day (Mama and Me)
8. Pip's Dino Day (twist: dinosaurs doing everyday things)
9. Pip's Summer Beach Adventure
10. Pip's Big Book of Colors (bundle once 3 books exist)

Every book keeps: Little Star hidden on each page, 2-line rhyme caption, one design per sheet, blank backs, "This book belongs to" page, certificate, and a back-matter "More Pip adventures" page listing all titles (update older books' back matter each quarter via Edit content).

4. Weekly cadence

Friday 6pm ET (automatic scheduled run starts the cycle):

- Research 30-45 min: Amazon search/bestseller pages for 5-8 candidate niches; check BSR and review counts of top results, cover quality, keyword autocomplete; check upcoming seasonal deadlines in section 3.
- Score each candidate (section 5) and pick ONE.
- Produce the launch kit so Saturday starts at full speed: idea brief, all captions, per-page Gemini prompts, KDP listing draft (title, subtitle, description, 7 keywords, 3 categories), cover brief, marketing kit outline.
- Save to the repo under books/<slug>/ and send a push notification with the pick and why.

Saturday: generate art in Gemini through Chrome (laptop on, signed in, both Google accounts; roughly 45 images per account per day, so 30-40 page toddler books fit in one day, 50 page books take two).
Sunday: capture, clean, build interior and cover, QA (fonts embedded, 300 ppi, view pages).
Monday: upload to KDP, run Previewer, publish (needs Vijay's go-ahead before the final publish click).
Tuesday-Thursday: social graphics, free printable pack, Pinterest pins, Author Central and A+ update, add the book to every other book's back matter list.
Next Friday: results review, then the next pick.
Realistic throughput: one new 30-40 page book per week, or one 50 page book every 8-10 days. Keep two books ahead of the seasonal deadline at all times.

5. Niche scoring (0–5 each, pick the highest total)

- Demand: top-10 results have BSR under 100,000 in Books; several under 30,000 is strong.
- Gap: top results have under 200 reviews, weak covers, generic titles, or no series.
- Fit: reuses Pip, Little Star and the existing art style.
- Timing: evergreen, or seasonal with at least 6 weeks to the deadline.
- Speed: can finish inside one week.
- Hook: one sentence that makes it different from the top 10.

Reject anything using famous characters, brands, or trademarks.

6. Sales flywheel (all free)

- Series: link every Pip book in one KDP Series; Amazon shows it on every listing.
- Back matter in every book lists the other titles.
- Author Central: one page, all books, bio, photos.
- A+ Content for each book (free), built from page art.
- Free printable pack per book is the lead magnet for Pinterest (5-10 pins a week, pins keep earning for months).
- Short "color with Pip" videos reuse the existing video pipeline.
- Reviews: ask real buyers only. Never trade anything for reviews. Insert a polite review-request line on the last page.
- Bundles at $14.99+ once 3 books are live.

7. Decision rules (check every Friday in KDP reports)

- A title selling 3+ units/week in its first 4 weeks: make a sequel in that niche within 2 weeks.
- A title under 1 unit/week after 6 weeks: change cover or title/subtitle/keywords once, wait 3 weeks, then stop that niche.
- Seasonal books: relist/refresh keywords every year 8 weeks before the date.
- Spend: stay at $0 ads until one title proves 3+ units/week organically; then test $3-5/day Sponsored Products on the best title only.

8. Risks

- Amazon scrutinizes bulk AI content: keep quality high, keep AI disclosure accurate on every book, do not clone other publishers' books.
- Gemini daily image limits; keep the second Google account signed in.
- The first book has zero reviews; early ranking depends on free traffic.
- Interior has not been proof-printed; order one author copy before scaling.
- Never reuse copyrighted characters; keep all art original.